People with Disabilities (PWD) Parking Decal for Richmond Residents In the City of Richmond, BC

Introduction

A mix of short and long-term metered parking, along with some permit parking on City streets and in parking lots is available in Richmond. The Richmond Centre for Disability (RCD) has developed a People with Disabilities (PWD) Parking Decal for Richmond Residents that can be used by eligible Richmond residents with disabilities to park free at on-street parking meters and off-street City owned pay parking.

Effective April 1, 2013, Richmond Residents who possess a PWD Parking Decal which is issued by the RCD and recognized by the City of Richmond, will be able to park for free, every day of the year, at on-street parking meters and off-street pay parking at Gateway Theatre, Bowling Green and Brighthouse Park. However, decal holders must adhere to parking limits (normally 2 hours on-street), even though parking is free of charge.

Purpose of PWD Parking Decal

Sometimes a person with disabilities who is a driver may be unable to physically operate the on-street parking meters and off-street ticket machines owned by the City of Richmond; thereby he/she cannot make payment at the parking meter or ticket machine because of his/her disability. In order to build a more inclusive community that promotes equal access for people with disabilities, the RCD in partnership with the City of Richmond issues a PWD Parking Decal for eligible Accessible Parking Permit holders to park for free at on-street parking meters and off-street City owned parking operations.
