DEFINING THE FUTURE

If we can describe the past year at the Richmond Centre for Disability (RCD) in one all-encompassing phrase, we suggest three words, “Defining our Future”. It has been a very busy year for all of us here as we celebrated the 30th Anniversary of the RCD. Meanwhile, we focused our thought and efforts on evolving our member services and governance structure, in response to a dynamic and ever-changing environment. This is a perfect reflection of RCD Founder Frances Clark’s words. She always said, “If we don’t know where we’re going, we don’t know where we will be; it’s important to remember our past, as well as our future.” At the centre of this journey lies the question - what do we need to do now to envision a brighter future for the RCD?

In the past year we embraced an intensive process of collaboration among board, staff, members, participants and volunteers to promote hope, inclusion, voice, dignity and empowerment. Board and Staff formulated a Strategic Plan and designed a number of directives such as the Financial Sustainability Plan, and action plans such as RCD’s 5-Year Road Map. This marked the beginning of many support and services improvement to be advanced, all with a focus on fostering the mission of the organization.

One constant commitment since RCD’s inception in 1985 is our commitment to Independent Living (IL) principles. Three decades ago, a group of caring citizens pioneered these principles, which recognize that people with disabilities have equal right to participate in the community to the fullest extent of their ability and to improve their quality of life by working for “Inclusion, Independence & Empowerment”. We are pleased to see that IL marks its impact as a number of service delivery models such as the Participation Model and People-Centred Approach are being brought to the forefront.

We are also excited to celebrate our 30th Anniversary, with the key theme “Getting Involved”. This formed our new objective that RCD will move forward, with strengthened confidence and better understanding of our goals and strategies for the future.

So we look to “Defining our Future” with confidence and in solidarity with our membership, knowing that the changes before us have been designed to reflect better practices, and above all, evidence that it does work.

Vince Miele, RCD Board Chair

Ella Huang, Executive Director
In everything we do, we try to improve our understanding of the preferences and ambitions of people with disabilities, acting on their feedback to shape the services and support we provide. We are committed to understanding and capturing their individual aspirations and choices.

Our strategic outcomes are supported by milestones, indicating what we plan to achieve each year, and to measure progress towards the outcomes. We believe that achieving these strategic outcomes will help towards making our mission a reality for the people we serve.

Governance Focus – The Board strengthened its capacity and commitment to diversity, inclusiveness and equality through both policy development and community outreach. The RCD Board conducted retreat, meetings with government officials to bring visibility to disability issues, and training of new members’ participation at the governance level.

Operational Focus – The RCD is in ‘learning mode’ for the new and growing expectations for performance measurement and outcome evaluation. We continue to develop both our understanding and our technical capacities for collecting, analyzing, interpreting and reporting on data. Two milestones were reached this past year including the introduction of on-line event registration and e-newsletters to stakeholders.

Services – RCD services imply a strong sense of community and belonging which we always strive to foster. Over the past year, we have been very active in building new activities to achieve broad choices and inclusion, to ensure our service delivery is targeted to participants who can benefit the most and to build a platform that will allow us to be dynamic within an ever-changing environment.

Membership – Expanding RCD membership is a key initiative for the succession planning that has been prioritized in our strategic plan. We revamped the membership structure and introduced a new category of Life Membership, as well as brought new lights to the membership benefits.

Supporting Our Staff – Change is becoming an increasingly common theme in our day-to-day work lives at the RCD. Supporting our staff to respond and manage change effectively while promoting self-care is fundamental to maintaining our quality of services and in creating new opportunities for our future. We have embarked on building our management capacity to handle change by using a strength-based, mentoring approach.

SERVICES & ACTIVITIES: WORKING TOGETHER TO BUILD A BETTER FUTURE

Information & Networking
To fulfill the mission statement of the organization, the RCD focuses heavily on community engagement and publicity, as well as conducting activities to empower people with disabilities to achieve their own independence. The fact that we are cross disability carries a major significance in the community because our goal is to fill service gaps, and not to duplicate existing services. We are able to adopt new trends and adapt to new changes in a timely fashion; it has proven many times that such flexibility contributes to the success of the organization and benefits our participants and the community at large.

Skills Development
The RCD offers a wide range of skills development opportunities to empower participants in leading a more independent life based on their diverse ability. We strive to respond to emerging needs of people with disabilities, by taking strategic responses to community needs and issues identified through our members, community leaders, government initiatives and disability organizations. Our goal is to be truly community-based and people-directed.

Recreation & Social Engagement
The RCD offers activities specifically designed to improve opportunities for socialization and enhance the development of social skills for people with disabilities. Most activities are offered on a weekly basis; overall average weekly attendance in various recreational activities is around 220 participants.

30 Years Serving the Community:
DEFINING THE FUTURE WITH THE MAGIC OF LIVES

An anniversary is more than a date to celebrate. It is a rare opportunity to use an organization's success, and the values and strengths underlying that success, to connect to the future.

In planning for a year-long celebration for our 30th anniversary, we discovered a common theme that is shared by all who support the RCD – the Magic of Lives. This understanding helps to strengthen confidence in the organization, and gives context to our goals and strategies for the future. Indeed an anniversary should be positioned as a celebration of the future.

FOUNDING VALUES

- Aligning with Organization Mission
- Connecting with Target Audiences
- Communicating Key Messages

The one Key Message we have embarked on is “GET INVOLVED WITH THE RCD”; we specifically designed events and invited volunteers, children, families, donors, businesses to join in our celebrations, thereby to guide us moving forward to build a better future together. We encouraged everyone to broaden our scope of thinking; THINK access, improvement, technology, invisible disability and more.

The Richmond Centre for Disability (RCD) is a not-for-profit, disability-led, community-based and cross-disability organization. For over 30 years we have been supporting people with disabilities to fulfill their potential and live the lives they choose.

Let the Magic of Lives be the Life-Changing Magic in your Life.
30 years ago a group of dedicated people shared a vision ....

They wanted a new kind of community where diversity was celebrated, accessibility was the norm, and people with disabilities were respected for their decisions & choices!

In 2000, an inspiration came to them .... to offer services that met people where they were

Where people are the magic of lives .....
